

TOMORROW IS TO DECIDE ALL

Questions Relative To The Republican Party
In Wisconsin And State Chairmanships.

MUCH DIFFERENCE IN SENTIMENT

Edmonds Appears To Have The Field To Himself For
The State Chairmanship--Question Of County
Option Also Discussed.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., Sept. 21.—The Wisconsin republican platform convention, which meets here Tuesday, promises to be characterized by several sharp contests.

Up to two days ago the election of chairman of the state central committee seemed to be the main cause for dispute, but that has slumbered down until it is unlikely that any other than E. A. Edmonds will be in the running. Mr. Edmonds managed the successful campaign of Senator Isaac Stephenson as a candidate for re-nomination and is the choice of Senator Stephenson for the state chairmanship.

The talk of repudiating the primary election vote on the senatorship has subsided, and the leaders seem willing to abide by the party platform and avoid further contest.

The main reason for the acquiescence of the other candidates in the nomination of Mr. Stephenson appears to be the fact that he looked after the legislature himself and so many certain members of the next legislature are for him that there is no hope to be seen in resisting the ratification of the primary election vote.

There will be 121 votes in the republican convention if all qualified members are present, being the 128 republican members for senate in the assembly, the 16 republican members for senate in the state senate, the five candidates for state office and the 17 independent senators.

Aside from the election of chairman, there will be several contests on platform planks. The La Follette people desire to refer with approval to the attitude of the Wisconsin delegation in the last republican national convention, in proposing a number of La Follette ideas for the national platform.

Many delegates, however, are opposed to putting into the platform any language that might indicate that the Wisconsin republicans are not in accord with the national platform and the national ticket.

Reference to the new Wisconsin life insurance laws will also be a difficult matter. James E. Abbott, probable nominee for commissioner of insurance, is opposed to these new laws, as the result of which a score of old life insurance companies withdrew from the state, and he will try to restrain the convention in any proposal to declare approval of the new laws.

Senator H. W. Barker of Sparta is bringing some trouble for the convention. He demands that the platform declare in favor of a county saloon license option law.

All indications point toward prompt disposal of this plank by reference to a committee, but Senator Barker declares he will get the convention to vote upon his plank, and there will come the ticklish moment for the party leaders are determined to make a declaration on county option.

Conventions of the other parties are to be held on the same day here, but these gatherings have elicited little interest.

Practically all the delegates to the convention will remain in Madison to hear W. L. Taft Thursday, and many will remain to hear W. J. Bryan Saturday.

The two national party presidential nominees came here to speak under the auspices of the Farmers' National Congress and they are expected to make non-partisan addresses.

Probably 15,000 strangers will be in Madison this week on account of the Farmers' National Congress and the presence of the presidential candidates.

TWENTY-FOUR HOUR RACE IS SCHEDULED

As One of the Features of Automobile
Meet in Milwaukee Next Friday and Saturday.

One of the features of the automobile race-meet which is to be held at the state fair grounds in Milwaukee, next Friday and Saturday, Sept. 25 and 26, will be a 24-hour contest in which at least ten big, high-powered machines will compete. Among the cars already entered are: a Locomobile, the machine which set a world's mark of 1,146 miles in the big derby at Milwaukee on Sept. 22, last year; a Matheson, which won signal honors in the recent Elkhart 24; a Stearns, winner of the Algonquin hill climb at Chicago, in July; and a 40-horse-power Jackson. Secretary James T. Drought of the Milwaukee Automobile club, promoter of the derby, now is in correspondence with makers of the Locomobile, the car which won the twenty-four hour race at Brighton, N. Y., last week, and Mr. Drought is confident that a Locomobile will compete. Bob Drach, who drove a Locomobile to a world's record last year, will be at the wheel of the same car again this time.

MAY CHANGE TICKET BECAUSE OF RULING

Democrats Had No Right to Vote in Primary.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Chicago, Sept. 21.—A ruling which may change the result of the republican primary election for the state's attorney nomination was made by Judge Cutting today when he declared that any voter who had voted as a democrat two years previous to the primary could not legally vote for the nomination of any one on the other ticket.

TRIPLE MURDERER IS NOW ON TRIAL

Frank Zasteras of Freehold, New Jersey, Placed on Trial Today.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Freehold, N. J., Sept. 21.—The case of Frank Zasteras, the self-confessed triple murderer, was called for trial here today. That insanity is to be the basis of the defense became apparent in the initial proceedings in court. A number of witnesses, among them several who formerly employed the defendant, are expected to testify to their belief that the youthful murderer is of unbalanced mind.

The crime for which Zasteras is to stand trial was committed at Marlboro on May 16 last. His victims were his employer, William B. Sheppard, and his wife, Josephine B. Sheppard, and their servant, Jennie Brady. The murders were committed in the night and apparently were without any definite motive. The first victim was Mrs. Sheppard, who was killed as she was wearing milk for her baby. The murderer shot her three times and she died almost instantly. The husband was shot as he was coming downstairs to rescue his wife. The servant girl met her death as she was trying to escape from the house. After the triple crime the youthful murderer went to the house of a neighbor and told him all was dead in the Sheppard home. Zasteras, the same afternoon, was taken into custody because of his conflicting statements, and after his arrest a confession was soon obtained. During the period he has spent in jail he has displayed no concern over his probable fate and in court he appeared smiling and unperturbed.

The board of officers probably will be in session three weeks as a vast quantity of business awaits attention, including a consideration of the officers' reports and a discussion of several proposed changes in the constitution. The matter of establishing a sanatorium for the care of members suffering from tuberculosis will also be given attention.

NO CHANGE IN THE CAMPAIGN MANAGER

Republicans Are Still Following Lines Laid Down at the Opening of the Contest.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Chicago, Sept. 21.—Stories to the effect there has been a change or there is to be a change made in the management of the republican national campaign appear to be without foundation. The Associated Press has caused inquiries to be made in every place that could be expected to supply reliable information on the subject and it is declared the campaign is being conducted along the lines originally planned and that the program will continue without alterations.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Halifax, N. S., Sept. 21.—The effect of immigration upon trade conditions in Canada is the all-important subject to be discussed at the twenty-fourth annual convention of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, which convened in this city today with a large and representative attendance. Other important matters to receive attention are amendments to the election act; co-operation, eight-hour legislation, senate reform, and oblige pensions.

The congress was called to order in the legislative council chamber at 10 o'clock this morning by the president, Alphonse Verreault, M. P. The roll call showed an attendance of more than 150 delegates, representing labor bodies in the chief cities from Halifax to Vancouver. The exchange of greetings and the work of organization occupied the opening session. Reports of the various officers show a gratifying gain in membership and a steady advance in the progress of the labor movement throughout the Dominion.

PANICKY CONDITION OF STOCK MARKET

Unsettled Close of Saturday Causes
Many Selling Orders This Morning.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
New York, Sept. 21.—The stock market started in an unsettled condition today as a consequence of the weakness of last week. Selling orders from outside sources came into the market over Sunday and caused declines of from 1 to 2½ points in the market leaders. The turn taken by a political canvass towards the increased prominence of the anti-corruption issue is not reflected by the element active in stock speculation.

Head of the Church of England in Canadian City Passed Away
This Morning.

BOSTON PROMOTER SOON TO BE TRIED

C. F. King Indicted for Fraud in Stock and Promoting

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Boston, Mass., Sept. 21.—It is expected that before the end of this week the case of Carleton F. King, the financial promoter, will be reached for trial in the superior court. Only a few months ago King was one of the most widely known promoters and stock brokers in Boston and New York. His extensive and alluring advertisements had drawn thousands of dollars into his coffers from the pockets of would-be speculators, a large proportion of whom were residents of rural communities. When rumors of King's financial embarrassment were circulated, the promoter disappeared and his whereabouts remained unknown for several months, when he returned to Boston and surrendered himself. During his absence he had been put through bankruptcy and several indictments had been returned against him for alleged fraud.

ABBOTT GAINED IN THE CORRECT VOTE

Recount in Monroe Showed Error in Inspectors' Report Handed to County Clerk.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Monroe, Wis., Sept. 21.—Unofficial returns from this city give Abbott, republican candidate for commissioner of insurance, twenty more votes from Green county than the official report, the vote in the third ward of this city on the office in question being omitted in the county clerk's report to the secretary of state. The error was the fault of the third ward election inspectors, who failed to give the vote on insurance commissioners in their report to the county clerk. Discovery of the error was made at Madison last Friday when George S. Beedle, candidate for re-nomination to the office, started a contest for the nomination. If the official returns from the ward are the same as the unofficial, Abbott's majority in the state will be raised from 168 to 188.

William Haddinger of Clarno township, accused of delivering milk not up to standard at the Kleckner cheese factory, four miles south of this city, was found guilty and fined $25 and costs. His case has been appealed to the circuit court. Paul Knoll, arrested on the same charge, complaint being made by Fred Marty, inspector for the dairy and food commission of the state, was brought into court but the jury disagreed, five standing for conviction and one for acquittal. The case will be retried Friday.

G. T. Hodges of Monroe was re-elected chairman of the democratic county committee and Miles T. Gottings, who was a candidate for nomination on the state democratic ticket for secretary of state at the last primary, was re-elected secretary. William Ludlow was chosen treasurer. County campaign headquarters will be established in Monroe. Each candidate for county office will be assessed $5 as a nucleus for a campaign fund.

Monroe defeated the Freeport Crescents here 9 to 2 Monday afternoon, the game being the rubber of the season, each team having won a contest.

ARCHAEOLOGISTS OF CITY HELD A LEVEE

Yesterday at H. L. Skavlem's Home—A. B. Stout Told Indian Explorations in N. Dakota.
A. B. Stout, assistant professor of botany at the University of Wisconsin and vice-president of the Wisconsin Archaeological Society, spent Sunday at the home of Halvor L. Skavlem, chairman of the research committee of the last named organization. Mr. Stout recently completed six weeks of field work among the old village sites of the Archaean, Mound and Mound (Great) Mound, along the Missouri river in North Dakota. His work was conducted under the auspices of the historical society of that state and he made a number of valuable discoveries which will be important contributions to the records of Indian life. A small group of Janesville people who are interested in this sort of work, including Horace McElroy and Fred Gleason, listened with great attention yesterday afternoon to the account of his experiences and "finds." He also exhibited a number of duplicates of the photographs he had taken for the society. Mr. Stout surveyed the Stank county mounds for the Wisconsin archaeological society and also collaborated with H. L. Skavlem in the preparation of an exhaustive account of the Indian outworks of the Lake Koshkonong region, recently published in the Wisconsin Archaeologist. He is a brother of Claude Stout of Baraboo, who became a member of the Janesville corps of teachers this fall and is in charge of the "special grade" at the Lincoln school.

FOREST FIRES IN THE LAKE STATES

Disastrous Conflagrations Which Have Destroyed Life and Property in the Past.

The terrible work of the flames which are burning over and destroyed hundreds of thousands of acres of timber and property to the value of millions in Wisconsin and at present the Lake states recalls to memory other great forest fires which have attained historic importance.

One of the earliest of these was the great Milwaukee fire of 1825. It began its greatest destruction about one o'clock in the afternoon of October 7 of that year at a place about 60 miles above the town of Newcomb, on the Milwaukee river, in New Brunswick. Before ten o'clock at night it was 20 miles below Newcomb. In nine hours it had destroyed a belt of forest 80 miles long and 25 miles wide. Over more than two and one-half million acres, almost every living thing was killed. Even the fish were afterwards found dead in heaps on the river banks. Two hundred and ninety buildings were burned, and a number of towns, including Newcomb, Chatham and Dunbarton, were destroyed. One hundred and sixty persons perished, and nearly a thousand head of stock. The loss from the Milwaukee fire is estimated at $200,000, not including the value of the timber.

In the majority of each forest fire as this the destruction of the timber is a more serious loss, for far than that of the cattle and buildings, for it carries with it the impoverishment of a whole region for tens or even hundreds of years afterwards. The loss of the stumpage value of the timber at the time of the fire is but a small part of the damage to the neighborhood. The wages that would have been earned in lumbering, added to the value of the products that would have been purchased to supply the lumber camps, and the taxes that would have been devoted to roads and other public improvements, furnish a much truer measure of how much, sooner or later, it costs a region when its forests are destroyed by fire.

The Peshtigo fire of October, 1871, was still more severe than the Milwaukee. It covered an area of more than 2,000 square miles in Wisconsin, and involved a loss in timber and other property of many millions of dollars. Between 1,200 and 1,500 persons perished, including nearly half the population of Peshtigo, at that time a town of 2,000 inhabitants. Other fires of about the same time were most destructive in Michigan.

A strip about 30 miles wide and 180 miles long, extending across the central part of the state, from Lake Michigan to Lake Huron, was devastated. The estimated loss in timber was about 4,000,000,000 feet board measure, and in money over $10,000,000. Several hundred persons perished.

In the early part of September, 1881, great fires covered more than 1,800 square miles in various parts of Michigan. The estimated loss, in property, in addition to many hundred acres of valuable timber, was more than $2,300,000. Over 5,000 persons were made destitute, and the number of lives lost is variously estimated at from 150 to 500.

The most destructive fire of more recent years was that which started near Huckleby, Minnesota, September 1, 1891. While the area burned over was less than in some other great fires, the loss of life and property was very heavy. Huckleby and six other towns were destroyed, about 500 lives were lost, more than 2,000 persons were left destitute, and the estimated loss in property of various kinds was $27,000,000. Except for the heroic conduct of locomotive engineers and other railroad men the loss of life would have been much greater.

"The fire was all the more deplorable because it was wholly unnecessary. For many days before the high wind, the fire had been burning slowly close to the town of Huckleby, and could have been put out.

OBITUARY.

MRS. HANNA L. BRYANT.
Like a shock of corn fully ripe and ready for the harvest, the silent reaper reaped the fruitage of a well spent life, and at 7:30 o'clock yesterday morning the spirit of Mrs. Hanna L. Bryant passed on to the bosom which had sheltered the jewel for more than 30 years, was tenacious.

Mrs. Bryant's maiden name was Lewis. She was born at Lynn, Mass., August 20th, 1818, where she grew to womanhood. When 14 years of age she became identified with the Methodist church, and remained a consistent member until her death.

In 1829 she was united in marriage to Adison Bryant of Westfield, Mass. Four children blessed the union and two survive, Adison of Chicago, and Frances, the wife of John G. Hayner of 22 Million Ave., with whom Mrs. Bryant had lived for many years.

Her grandfather was related to General La Fayette and when a girl of 14 she had the pleasure of a visit with the general at Marblehead, Mass. The blood of the Puritans was in her veins and during the active years of her life she was a busy, intelligent worker.

After the death of her husband, which occurred more than 40 years ago, she was appointed matron of the Old Ladies' Home at Providence, Rhode Island, and later served in the same capacity in the Children's Orphanage at Springfield, Mass.

Mrs. Bryant possessed a loving spirit and kindly disposition, which won for her the love and friendship of all who knew her. She enjoyed a full life which was sublime and as the years of feebleness came on, she looked into the future with glad anticipation, inspired by a hope which was like an anchor to the soul.

Some years ago she said to her daughter, "You will miss me some morning and when you come up to call me I will be gone, but don't worry for I expect to go suddenly." Then she selected her undertaker and the dress she was to wear, requested that the Episcopal burial service be used, because it was brief, wanted neither music nor flowers, just a simple sheaf of wheat and sickle, and then departed for the better life.

During the early days of her illness she talked much of the future and spoke of visions of the beautiful city and the music of the unseen choir. A week ago and just before departing of the last ray of consciousness, she stretched up her arms and said in a hoarse voice, "Savior, take me," and while the heart continued to beat, who shall say that her prayer was not answered?

In the triumphant ending of such a journey, the tragedy which lies across the pathway of every life seems less forbidding.

The new United Brethren church is just across the way from Mrs. Bryant's late home and she was able to attend many of the services and became much attached to the pastor, Rev. L. A. McIntyre, who will conduct the funeral services at the home at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. In carrying out Mrs. Bryant's wishes, the family request "no flowers."

SCARLET FEVER AT LARGE DAIRY FARM

Dr. Wauke finds Four Cases on Premises Where 20 Cows Were Producing Milk for Janesville.

In the course of his investigation of a few cases of scarlet fever, which have developed recently in Janesville, City Health Officer G. C. Wauke drove four miles into the country on Saturday and made a call at a farm where there are four children ill with the disease. He found that twenty cows are being milked daily on this particular farm and the product sold to Janesville dealers. It is a well known fact that the disease is sometimes transmitted in this fashion, though it has not been established that the cases in this city made their appearance among families who were consumers of the milk produced at the farm in question. However, as a precautionary measure, the further distribution in Janesville of milk from that quarter will be prevented. The city boys in the care of a Janesville physician who had not even taken the trouble to report the case to the proper authorities. At the next meeting of the common council a milk ordinance which is designed to meet just such exigencies as have been described will be presented for the consideration of the City Fathers.

Strange as Fiction
Newspaper for Kidney and Rheumatic Sufferers.

In Germany there is a newspaper published in the interests of all rheumatic sufferers, and each week symptoms and treatments are discussed by both busy and medical men. One scientific contributor related that a formula originated especially to relieve kidney diseases, had almost phenomenal virtue in the treatment of all forms of rheumatism.

Its action is to favor the kidney secretions and stimulate their filtering capacity, so that the poisons and acids which cause rheumatism are eliminated. No secret is made of this formula, which is composed of one-half ounce fluid extract of licorice, one ounce compound fluid balsam, and two ounces compound syrup Sarsaparilla, mixed in a bottle, and to be taken in teaspoonful doses after each meal and one at retiring.

A local druggist states that any honest pharmacist can fill the prescription, and expressed the opinion that every rheumatism and kidney sufferer will be grateful for this item.

SENATOR FORAKER QUITS CAMPAIGN

ALL OHIOAN'S ENGAGEMENTS
FOR SPEECHES CANCELLED.

TO ANSWER HEARST LATER

Then He Will Seek Re-Election to Senate—Judge Taft's Generous
Attitude Toward Him Disclosed.

Cincinnati, Sept. 21.—United States Senator Joseph H. Foraker has cancelled all of his speaking engagements in the campaign. In a written request to National Chairman Frank H. Hitchcock he asked to be relieved from the appointments which had been arranged for him by the national speakers' bureau, and in a communication to State Chairman Williams of the Ohio Republican committee he made the same request as to the engagements that had been arranged for him in this state.

As to Senator Foraker's senatorial candidacy, the Associated Press is authorized to state the senator's position as follows:

"Senator Foraker will leave the selection of his successor to the legislature, but will do all in his power to see that a Republican legislature is elected."

He Will Seek Re-Election.
In addition to this information, Senator Foraker Sunday told his friends that he should, at the proper and convenient opportunity, make a speech in answer to the Hearst charges and in defense of himself, and then should campaign the entire state in behalf of his senatorial candidacy, but under the jurisdiction of no political committee.

The interesting details of just how Senator Foraker came to withdraw from participation in the forthcoming convention of the National League of Republican clubs, at which he was to speak with Judge Taft here on Tuesday evening, were disclosed Sunday afternoon. On the morning of the first publication of the Hearst disclosures (Friday) Senator Dick came to the city from Columbus. After a conference with Senator Foraker, he went to the Taft residence, where he had an interview with the candidate, at which the situation was discussed frankly.

Taft's Generous Attitude.
No conclusions were reached, but Senator Dick obtained the distinct impression that, in view of the circumstances, the question of the joint appearances of Taft and Foraker was one which required consideration. In this connection the arrival of Senator Crane on Saturday morning was noted, and the junior Ohio senator indicated that he should take up the matter with his Massachusetts colleague. After Senator Crane, Foraker and Dick had conferred Saturday morning, the latter which Senator Foraker made public Saturday night, in which he eliminated himself from the meeting, was taken to the Pike street residence by Senator Crane.

Throughout the negotiations Judge Taft refused absolutely to comment for publication on the matter. It has since developed that he had at once taken the position that the joint engagement must be cancelled. It has also developed that the candidate received insistent advice to take the initiative in the matter of cancelling the arrangements, and that his reply was emphatic in this language:

"If it would win me every vote in the United States I cannot hit a man when he is down."

President Joga the Voters.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., Sept. 21.—President Roosevelt in a letter to William H. McKinley, chairman of the Republican congressional committee, made public Sunday, appeals to disinterested citizens to join with the national Republican committee and the congressional committee in a movement to elect William H. Taft as president and a Republican congress to support him. After reviewing some of the important legislation of the past seven years the president declares that Mr. Taft and the Republican candidates for congress seek election on a platform which specifically pledges the party to continue and develop the policies which have been acted upon for seven years past.

All the aid that can be given to perpetuate the policy of the government is now carried on, the president says, should be given by every good citizen, as it is far more than a partisan matter.

Bryan, Parker and Hill Confer.
Albany, N. Y., Sept. 21.—Important conferences bearing on the political situation, both national and state, were held Sunday by William J. Bryan, with Judge Alton B. Parker, at Esopus, and with former United States Senator David H. Hill, at Wolfert's Mount, near this city. These were preceded by a long consultation in the early morning between Mr. Bryan and National Chairman Mack in New York city.

LINER IS DISABLED AT SEA

PASSENGERS ON MAURETANIA HAVE EXCITING TIME.

Panic Follows an Accident and Lightly
Clad Women Flee Their Staterooms.

New York, Sept. 21.—Passengers on the liner Mauretania, the largest ship afloat, had a terrifying experience in mid-ocean last Thursday, when, through an accident to one of the propeller shafts and propellers, the vessel bobbed up and down for nearly five minutes like a springless wagon on a corduroy road.

The masts of the ship quivered, as one of the masts expressed it, "like bamboo fishing poles." Passengers in the second cabin were lifted out of their chairs and thrown to the floor and first cabin passengers in their berths were bounced up in the air a foot or more and then dropped back, only to bounce again.

The corridors and gangways were filled with terrified women, many of them in scanty attire. One woman ran through the main saloon attired only in a chemise and a feather bow.

Fourteen firemen, at work in the coal bunkers, were buried under piles of coal, precipitated upon them by the vertical jarring of the ship. One of them sustained a broken arm, another a broken leg, and the scalp of still another was so lacerated as to require 23 stitches.

There was a terrific gale blowing at the time of the accident—the same hurricane all the ships crossing the Atlantic last week encountered. The storm had been raging for nearly 36 hours and this added to the fear of the passengers. As soon as possible after the vertical jarring of the ship began the engines were stopped. The big vessel dashed around on the waves for half an hour, and when the engines started again the nerve racking jarring started also.

YANKEE FLEET PASSES PERTH.

Great Crowds of Australians Did the Battlehips Good-By.

Perth, Western Australia, Sept. 21.—The American fleet of battlehips passed this coast Sunday morning on the long run to Manila. The fleet was proceeding in two columns, the Connecticut and Louisiana leading. The warships turned to the west about one o'clock and a large number of pleasure craft crowded with sightseers followed them for some 20 miles to sea. The trains reaching this city brought vast numbers of Australians, all bent on catching a last glimpse of the American fleet. Many of them traveled hundreds of miles, and the railroad stations were thronged with people on their way to Fremantle, which is the chief port of Western Australia, at the mouth of the Swan river, 12 miles south of Perth. From Fremantle a score of pleasure boats with crowds of enthusiasts aboard steamed out to Rottnest island, which lies several miles off the coast.

It was said that the pope Sunday received in audience 70 sailors from the American battleships Maine and Alabama, which are at Naples. The pontiff, who is always interested in seagoing men, expressed pleasure at their smart appearance. Each of the men kissed the pope's ring and received from him a medal. The pope, standing among them, made a most kindly speech, in which he thanked them for the visit.

GREAT FIRES IN PARIS.

Central Telephone Building, Post Office and Store Burned.

Paris, Sept. 21.—Fire broke out Sunday night in the Central Telephone building and spread with such rapidity that the telephone employees were forced to flee hastily to the streets. The entire building was soon in flames, and this together with the post office, which is located close to the Place des Victoires, was totally destroyed. The loss is estimated at $5,000,000, but a much greater loss is likely to be involved through the complete interruption of all telephonic communication in the center of Paris, as well as communication with the provinces and abroad.

The telephone building was comparatively new and was fitted with the costly new central battery system. It will take more than a month to reestablish the service, and even a temporary installation will require a considerable length of time.

Sunday was a record day in the history of the fire department the men being out all morning and afternoon for a big fire in independent store in the Faubourg-St. Denis. Damage to the extent of $500,000 was done here.

Admits Murdering Two Women.
Jacksonville, Fla., Sept. 21.—Walter Lohetter, a negro tramp, was arrested early Sunday by Sheriff Rowden, at the settlement of Marietta, and confessed to killing Mrs. Norman and her daughter there Saturday. As soon as the residents of the settlement learned that the negro had been captured there were threats of lynching, but the negro was safely lodged in the Duval county jail.

George W. Welder Is Dead.
Portland, Ore., Sept. 21.—George W. Welder, a lumber manufacturer and in former days one of the most prominent men on the Pacific coast in the lumber business, died at the family home in this city late Saturday night. Mr. Welder was 71 years old. The cause of his death was a paralytic stroke suffered about three years ago. He was once connected with Ben Holladay's famous pony express.

Yearly Coal Output.
The 550,000,000-odd tons of coal mined in the United States each year, if piled together, would make a cube having sides 714 yards long.

HOW ONE MAN SOLD HIS FARM

A Minnesota Farmer Successfully
Tries New Long-Distance
Plan of Selling.

FOURTEEN MEN IN SIX DIFFERENT STATES WANT HIS PLACE.

Makes sale without aid of real estate agent and doesn't pay a cent commission.

Cass Co., Minnesota, (Special Correspondence).—The farmers in this section are intensely interested in a recent experience of one of their neighbors, Mr. H. St. John, who owned a farm in Cass County, has succeeded in selling it at his own price, without the help of a real estate agent and without paying a cent in commission. He could have sold the farm fourteen times over as he had that number of men after it. In the course of a conversation with your correspondent, Mr. St. John said:

"Yes, I sold my farm without any trouble and for the benefit of others who just have to happen. I had tried all the usual methods of selling, that is by advertising in the local papers and through local real estate men, and had about given up hope of being able to sell, when I happened to come across the advertisement of a concern known as Leonard Darbyshire, Incorporated, of Rochester, N. Y., who make a business of finding buyers for anything one wants to sell. I wrote to these people for their plan and I received a letter from Mr. Darbyshire, the President of the Corporation, together with a copy of their booklet, fully describing a new and up-to-date method of bringing buyer and seller together. Their plan looked good to me and I sent them a description of my farm which they must have sent to prospective buyers all over the country because I received no less than fourteen letters from men who wanted my place, and these letters came from Iowa, Illinois, Mississippi, Wisconsin and Nebraska, and other States outside of Minnesota. You can imagine that with such a demand I had no trouble in making a sale and I sold my farm to a man in Iowa at my own price, and what's more to the point, I didn't have to pay a cent commission to anyone. I cannot say too much in favor of the Rochester concern and I am delighted with the treatment they gave me. They did everything for me that they agreed to do and I never would have been able to sell so quickly without their assistance because it is hard to sell through an agent, and even if an agent does find a buyer, you have to pay a large amount in commission. The system of bringing buyer and seller together originated by Mr. Leonard Darbyshire, is the best I ever heard of, and he seems to be able to find buyers for all kinds of properties, not matter where they are located."

Mr. St. John's success in selling his farm was due to reading a booklet issued by Leonard Darbyshire, Inc., of Rochester, N. Y. This booklet tells of a new and successful method of finding buyers for farms and real estate, business properties, automobiles, patents and in fact almost anything salable. The corporation issuing this booklet are not real estate agents and do not accept a penny in commission on sales made by their assistance. Their plan of cutting out the real estate agents has met with remarkable success, and owners throughout the country are quickly availing themselves of this opportunity to sell quickly places which for a long time remained in the hands of real estate agents, who failed to sell, for the reason that the commission which the agent placed upon the property killed the sale.

It is said that Mr. Leonard Darbyshire, the president of this concern, is doing more to assist property owners to sell than all the real estate agents in America combined, and anyone wishing to dispose of anything anywhere at any price, would do well to write to Leonard Darbyshire, President Dept. 1189, Rochester, N. Y., giving a brief description of the property for sale, and asking him to send a free copy of his booklet explaining his new method of selling.

BLOODY FIGHT WITH POSSE

MURDERER AND HIS WIFE IN BATTLE WITH SHERIFF.

That Official and the Woman Are Mortally Wounded and Three Others Shot.

West Plains, Mo., Sept. 21.—John Roberts and his wife Sunday resided at a sheriff's posse in a desperate battle near Proctorville, one mile south of the Missouri-Arkansas line, when the officers attempted to arrest Roberts for killing Ohio Kessinger, a neighbor, Saturday night. As a result the woman and Sheriff Mooney of Baxter county, Ark., were mortally wounded, and Roberts and two members of the posse—Max Lowery and his son—were seriously hurt. Roberts may not survive.

The murder of Kessinger was cold blooded. Roberts went to the house late in the evening and called his victim to the door. When Kessinger appeared Roberts fired and killed him. The cause of the deed has not been learned here.

Sheriff Mooney called several deputies when he was informed of the crime early Sunday morning and started to arrest Roberts. The posse was halted by the woman and told to keep away, but when the sheriff continued to advance both she and her husband opened fire.

Mooney was shot by the woman. His fall disconcerted his deputies for a few minutes and Roberts and his wife took advantage of this to harry the house. They defended the building for hours. When the firing from within finally ceased, the door was broken down.

Mrs. Roberts, suffering from 14 wounds, was dying and her condition was such that no attempt was made to remove her to jail. Roberts and the wounded officers were taken to Mountain Home, Ark.

NOT A PARTISAN MEASURE

Wisconsin is the only state in the Union that has a constitution that forbids the state to aid the farmers to build roads. All other states that had such a provision have changed it, and it is to be hoped that our state will take advantage of the opportunity at the November elections and change its constitution so as to permit state aid for roads. Men of all parties should support it as it is a broad measure and concerns the public welfare.

Mr. Taft is reported as saying, "I have built roads in the Philippines and our government has paid for them. If we can do this for our island possessions I do not see why we should not do as much for our people at home."

Mr. Bryan also favors government and state aid for good roads, and the platform of both parties are committed to the movement. The state convention, which was held in Milwaukee state fair week, failed to accomplish very much, as the Milwaukee papers and fair program announced that it would be held on the grounds, while the state papers and official call,

named the place of meeting as the Turner hall. The result was confusion and a light attendance, but the state organization is intact and intelligent road-building is progressing. The next legislature will do well to encourage state aid.

THE OUTLOOK

Henry Clows, the New York banker, has this to say about the business outlook:

"The general outlook of the market cannot be called satisfactory, the tendency seemingly being towards lower prices.

Briefly stated, the situation is this:

After a rise, lasting several months,

which overdiscouraged all possible business recovery, a reaction was due. The panic has been more severe in its effects, especially upon the railroads, than was expected.

"General business, though improving, has not rallied as promptly or as fully as was expected; nor have the crops met early calculations, even though they turn out better than last year. It becomes necessary, therefore, to modify these extravagant expectations which had so much to do with the spring and summer rise.

"It must also be remembered that this phenomenal advance would have been absolutely impossible but for abnormally cheap money, which meant dear stocks and inflation for which there is usually a painful some day.

"Again we are now in the height of a presidential campaign; and though there is nothing seriously disturbing in the present contest it affords no material on which to prolong the late bull market. The tariff is sure to be a subject of active discussion and that is not quieting to business interests.

"The fact is generally recognized that business conditions are far from normal. Many manufacturers are running light, and will continue to do so until demands increase. The prospective revision of the tariff is a disturbing element, and will continue to be after Taft's election, but recovery is gradually going on and prosperity should be in full swing before the close of 1909.

RESULT OF AGITATION
The nation is passing through an era of agitation, such as never before experienced, and the watchword "reform" has been so generally adopted that state and national legislation has been influenced to radical measures, so extreme in many instances that harmful results have followed, in rapid succession.

While nature has smiled on the agricultural world, and the land has brought forth bountifully, the industrial and transportation realm has been invaded from every quarter, and depression and disaster is witnessed on every hand.

The crusade against corporations has been a tireless and relentless crusade, and the men responsible for directing it have much to answer for. The 40,000,000 dollar freight cars, and army of life railroad men, means infinitely more than appears on the surface. It means stagnation and paralysis to the nation's best employer, at a time when there is no earthly excuse for it. Just what it means to business is well told by an unknown writer in Appleton's for October.

Whether it is Hill or Hardman who is responsible for the Appleton article it makes some strong statements as to the effect of the anti-railroad crusade on the decline of prosperity. It is asserted that "two hundred condemnation laws" have been passed in the United States within the past year and that in the face of these it is impossible for the roads to raise the $5,000,000,000 which it is declared they will need in the next five years to place the transportation business of the country on the proper basis.

Striking figures are given showing that the iron ore traffic in the Great Lakes has decreased 77 per cent during the past twelve months, having fallen from 12,885,622 tons to 2,870,598 tons, and that 1,500,000 men, women and children dependent on the railroads for their living are without income. It is asserted that much foreign trade, traffic moving both to the Orient and to Europe, is being lost to American lines by the legal restrictions imposed, and the attacks which have made capital afraid to invest in railway securities.

The only remedy suggested, aside from a change in the general attitude of hostility toward all railroads, is that congress should authorize the federal government to compel all interstate roads to show that their capital stock represents money or property actually paid in as in the case of national banks as a measure to prevent all stock watering. In conclusion the writer asserts that "the importance of cooperating to keep our money moving throughout the United States is the greatest problem the nation has had to face since the Civil war."

This 77 per cent decrease in the iron ore trade means a like decrease in the thousands and one thing which enters into railway construction, yet people talk glibly about reform, and cheer the agitator to the echo. It is about time to take a day off for a little sober thinking.

While W. R. Hearst is making life a burden to Senator Foraker of Ohio, he manages to interest Governor Haskell, the Oklahoma reformer. Hearst's independent party is a thorn in the flesh to democracy, and he will manage to get even with some of his old-time enemies.

Taft will be in Janesville Tuesday morning at 9:10 on route for Madison on a C. & N.W. special. He should be greeted with a cordial reception, and assured that Wisconsin is in line with an old-time majority.

One of the benefits of the primary law is the platform, which, like the tail of a kite, comes in as a final attachment. The candidates will meet in Madison tomorrow to prepare this appendix.

Forest fires are adding to the tragedy of everyday life. Two towns in the northern part of the state are destroyed, and 4,000 people are homeless.

An effort will be made to put into the republican state platform, some of the minority planks presented at the Chicago convention.

The long continued drought makes it difficult to tell how many fools there are who don't know enough to go in out of the rain.

Senator Foraker may be entirely innocent, but a lot of explaining will be necessary. He is a victim of too much letter-writing.

Governor Haskell of Oklahoma is also explaining, and the chances are that he will lose his seat in the new cabinet.

A watch and a calf have been donated to the national prohibition campaign fund; that ought to help some.

Bryan values his Commerce at $19,000, which is at least $80,000 less than the paper is worth.

Mr. Hearst's bureau of information seems to be intact.

There's nothing that cools the ardor of a campaign like taking a collection.

PRESS COMMENT.

Father Time's Tough Toy
Delavan Enterprise: A Delavan man tried shrouding his finger nail watch this week and wrested the shroud. Also the watch. Like holy fingers, he has no heretofore.

Wall Street's Grouch
Monroe Journal: Wall street complains because the public refuses to buy stocks. The bulls and bears are evidently longing for the sweet voiced blent of the lamb.

It's the Modern Way
Appleton Crescent: It is said that fish, yet to be caught, are down in the Booth Co. report as assets. Something like counting unlatched chickens, very simple but also very uncertain.

Help the Infant Industries
El Paso Herald: Texas has 12,500 miles of railroad and only one-fifth of her land developed. Texas needs 50,000 miles of railroad, and yet there are denunciations who try to get votes by antagonizing the railroads.

Another Busted Paramount
St. Louis Globe-Democrat: Mr. Bryan's new issue of guaranteed bank deposits is going to pieces so fast under examination that he will hide it with the rest of his busted paramours before election day.

Such Language—In Appleton
Appleton Crescent: Careful inquiry among real estate agents fails to disclose a single sale of valuable property to anybody who recently got rich patronizing Mr. Tom Lawson's latest easy money scheme. Americans are not such jobbers as Tom Lawson thought.

Half Pint of Beloit Harmony
Beloit Independent: A close reader of Beloit's newspapers is even surprised that they are together on the proposition condemning the rankness of some alleged Labor day sport. The folk people were taken in by. The fake must have been a howling one to be so unanimously condemned.

Let's Hear from Fire Marshall
Wausau Record-Herald: Wisconsin has a system of fire protection, a fire marshal and deputies, but it is not apparent that any benefit was derived from them during the recent drought and widespread forest fires in the state. A report from the fire marshal would be interesting at this time as an indication of what he and his assistants have done to save the towns and timber the past month.

An Appalling Record
Exchange: According to the record kept by the Chicago Tribune, there have been nearly 300 cases of accidental drowning in this country during the past season. This is a fearful commentary on the carelessness, in the main, of pleasure seekers in and on the water during the summer months. It also confirms the wisdom of that oft-repeated advice to teach the boys and girls to swim while they are yet young, for experience shows that after people get old they very seldom attempt to master the art.

William J. Bryan, democratic presidential candidate, will speak to the congress on the afternoon of Sept. 25, on "The Farmer and His Relation to Public Affairs." William H. College of Agricultural building. All addresses of a public nature will be given in the spacious gymnasium, which will seat 5,000 people, and the lectures relating to farm products and demonstrations will be given in the College of Agriculture building. The delegates will be welcomed to the city by James O. Davidson, governor of Wisconsin, and the response will be given by President R. Cameron of Stagsville, N. C.

The organization was founded in 1881 and held its first annual meeting in Chicago. Since then it has been held in some large city in almost every state in the Union, east and west. The membership of the congress consists of many members from each state and territory, as is equivalent to one from each congressional district and two at large. Besides this one representative is appointed from each state or national agricultural association or experiment station. It is estimated there will be 2,000 delegates and 8,000 additional visitors.

One of the questions which will be considered at the congress will be the introduction of the bovine tuberculosis test as a national means of exterminating tuberculosis from the nation and getting a cleaner milk supply. Prof. H. L. Russell, dean of the Wisconsin College of Agriculture, will be one of the speakers on this subject. Joshua Strange of Indiana is

BODY OF BALCH IN LONELY WOOD

L. F. ANGER MADE A CREW SOME DISCOVERY UP RIVER YESTERDAY.

MISSING SINCE AUGUST 16

Unfortunate Man, Wandered Away From County House Five Weeks Ago—Immediate Cause of Death Not Evident.

While hunting for buttonnits in a lonely spot between Pratt's stone quarry and the St. Paul tracks, yesterday afternoon, L. F. Anger, who resides at 350 South Franklin street, made the ghastly discovery of the badly decomposed body of a man, lying face downward in a little aside which the spring rains had cut in the hillside. The pieces of a stout oak walkingstick which had been broken in two, lay on the ground a few feet distant. Long exposure to the elements and insects had made the features unrecognizable but letters found in the coat pocket at once established the identity and cleared up the mystery of Fred Balch's whereabouts since his disappearance from the county house on Sunday, August 16.

Cause of Death Unexplained.
Whether the unfortunate man had met death by a fall, or had been smothered in the small watercourse, or had succumbed to disease or exhaustion, was not evident and may never be known. Mr. Anger communicated with Supt. Kilham of the county farm, Sheriff Fisher, and District Attorney J. L. Fisher, and after a careful investigation had been made the remains were interred.

Son of J. H. Balch.
The deceased was a son of J. H. Balch who was for many years bookkeeper at the Rock County National bank. He was forty-five years of age and had been married, though his wife was compelled to leave him some years ago when he became mentally deranged.

Was Trusty at County House.
In February, 1906, shortly after his father had departed for California, leaving him in charge of the house, neighbors were alarmed by some of his actions which seemed to indicate that his mind was becoming badly unbalanced and after an investigation he was committed to the asylum at Mendota. Last April he was transferred to the county asylum. Employment in the dining room was given him and his dementia not being of a violent character, he was given the privileges of a trusty. After dinner-time, on Sunday, August 16, he wandered away from the grounds. He was not missed until that evening and a careful search, inaugurated then and in progress up to yesterday, failed to bring forth any clue to his possible whereabouts.

The remains were interred today in the family lot in the Oak Hill cemetery. Services at the grave were conducted by the Rev. R. C. Denison.

CHAPTER X.
Consequences.

Breathing convulsively, wide eyes a little wildly fixed upon his face in the lamplight, the girl stumbled to her feet, and for a moment remained cowering against the wall, terribly shaken, a hand gripping a corner of the packing box for support, the other pressed against the bosom of her dress as if in attempt forcibly to quell the mad hammering of her heart.

In her brain, a turmoil of affrighted thought, but one thing stood out clearly; now she need look for no mercy. The first time it had been different; she had not been a woman had she been unable then to see that the adventure intrigued Maitland with its spice of novelty, a new sensation, fully as much as she, herself, the pretty woman out of place, interested and attracted him. He had enjoyed playing the part, had been amused to lend her to believe him an adventurer of motto and caliber. Little interior to her own—as he understood her; unscrupulous, impatient of the quibble of meum-et-tuum, but adroit and keen-witted, and distinguished and set apart from the herd by grace of gentle breeding and chivalric instincts.

How far he might or might not have let this enjoyment carry him, she had no means of surmising. Not very far, not too far, she was inclined to believe, strongly as she knew her personality to have influenced him; not far enough to induce him to trust her out of sight with the jewels. He had demonstrated that, to her humiliation.

The flush of excitement waning, Maitland soon had he worried of the game—she thought; to her mind, in distorted retrospect, his attitude when leaving her at dawn had been indelicate, contemptuous, that of a man resolved to be rid of her, relieved to be able to get away in unquestioned possession of his treasure. True, the suggestion that they lunch together at Eugene's had been his. But he had forgotten the engagement, if ever he had meant to keep it, if the notion had been more than a whim of the moment with him. And O'Hanley had told her by telephone that Maitland had left his rooms at one o'clock—in ample time to meet her at the restaurant.

No, he had never intended to come; he had wearily, yet, patient with her, true to the ethics of a gentleman, he had been content to let her go, rather than to send a detective to take his place.

And this was something, by the way, to cause her to revise her theory as to the manner in which Anstey had managed to steal the jewels. If Maitland had come aboard at one, and without intending to keep his engagement at Eugene's, then he must have been despoiled before that hour, and without his knowledge. Surely, if the jewels had been taken from him with his cognizance, the hue and cry would have been out and Anstey would not have dared to linger so long in the neighborhood!

To be just with herself, the girl had not gone to the restaurant with much real hope of finding Maitland there. Curiosity had drawn her—just to see if—but it was too preposterous to credit that he should have cared enough. Quite too preposterous! It was her cup, her bitter cup, to know that she had learned to care enough—at least! And she recalled (with what pang of shame and misery begged expression!) how her heart had been stirred when she had found him (as she thought) true to his trust; even as she recalled the agony and distress of mind with which she had a moment later fathomed Anstey's impersonation.

For, of course, she had known that Maitland was Maitland and none other from the instant when he told her to make good her escape and leave him to be broken in out; a task to daunt even as bold and resourceful a criminal as Anstey, and more especially if he were called upon to don the mask of a minute's notice, as Maitland had pretended to. Or, if she had not actually known, she had been led to suspect; and it had hardly needed what she had heard him say to the servants, when he thought her flying hotfoot over the lawn to safety, to harden suspicion into certainty.

And now that he should find her here, a second time a trespasser, doubly an ingrate—that he should have caught her red-handed in this abominably ungrateful treachery! She could pretend, of course, that she had returned merely to restore the jewels and the cigarette case; and he would believe her, for he was generous. She could, but—she could not. Not now. Yesterday, the excitement had buoyed her; she had gained a piquant enjoyment from besting him, playing her part of the amateur crackman in this little comedy of the stolen jewels. But therein lay the difference; yesterday it had been comedy; to-day—ah! to-day she could no longer laugh. For now she cared.

A little lie would clear her—yes, but it was not to be cleared that she now so passionately desired; it was to have him believe in her, even against the evidence of his senses.

even in the face of the world's denunciation; and to prove that he, too, cared—cared for her as his attitude toward her had taught her to care.

Ever since leaving him in the dawn she had fed her starved heart with the hope, faint hope though it were, that he would come to care a little, that he would not utterly despise her, that he would understand and forgive, when he learned why she had played out her part, nor believe that she was the embodiment of all that was ignoble, coarse, and crude; that he would show a little faith in her, a little faith that like a flickering taper might light the way for—love.

But that hope was now dead within her, and cold. She had but to look at him to see how groundless it had been, how utterly unavailing he was by her distress. He waited patiently—that was all—seemingly so very tall, a pillar of righteous strength, distinguished and at ease in his evening clothes; waiting patient but cold, dispassionate and disdainful.

"I am waiting, you see. Might I suggest that we have not all week for our—our mutual differences?"

His tone was altogether changed; she would hardly have known it for his voice. His incisive, clipped accents were like a knife to her sensitiveness. She summoned the reserve of her strength, stood erect, unsupported, and moved forward without a word. He stood aside, holding the lamp high, and followed her, lighting the way down the hall to the study.

Once there, she sank quivering into a chair, while he proceeded gravely to the desk, put down the lamp—superfluous now, the gas having been lighted—and after a moment's thought faced her, with a contemptuous smile and lift of his shoulders, thrusting hands deep into his pockets.

"Well?" he demanded, cuttingly. She made a little motion of her hands, begging for time; and, ascending with a short nod, he took a turn up and down the room, then abstractedly reached up and turned out the gas.

"When you are quite composed I should enjoy hearing your statement." "I have none to make."

"So?"—with his back to the lamp, towering over and approaching her with the sense of his strength and self-control. "That is very odd, isn't it?" "I have no explanation to give that would satisfy you, or myself," she said, brokenly. "I don't care what you think," with a flicker of defiance. "Believe the worst and—do what you will—have me arrested."

Followed Her, Lighting the Way.

He laughed sardonically. "Oh, we won't go so far as that, I guess; harsh measures, such as arrest and imprisonment, are so unsatisfactory to all concerned. But I am interested to know why you are here."

Her breathing seemed very loud in the pause; she kept her lips tight, fearing to speak lest she lose her mastery of self. And hysteria threatened; the fluttering in her bosom wrenched her. She must be very careful, very restrained, if she were to avert that crowning misfortune.

"I don't think I quite understand you," he continued, musingly; "surely you must have anticipated interruption."

"I thought you safely out of the way."

"One presumed that," he laughed again, unpleasantly. "But how about Maitland? Didn't you have him in your calculations, or—"

He paused, unfathomably surprised by her expression. And chuckled when he comprehended.

"By the powers, I forgot for a moment! So you thought me Maitland, eh? Well, I'm sorry I didn't understand that from the first. You're so quick, as a rule, you know—I confess you duped me neatly this afternoon—that I supposed you were wise and only afraid that I'd give you what you deserve. If they had sent any one but that stupid ass, Hickey, to nab me, I'd be in the cooler now. As it was, you kindly selected the very best kind of a house for my purpose; I went straight up to the roof and out through a building round the corner."

But the shock of discovery, with its attendant revulsion of feeling, had been too much for her. She collapsed suddenly in the chair, eyes half closed, face pallid as a mask of death.

Anstey regarded her in silence for a meditative instant, then, taking up the lamp, strode down the hall to the pantry, returning presently with a glass brimming with an amber-tinted, overeffervescent liquid.

"Champagne," he announced, holding his glass. "Wish I had Maitland's means to gratify my palate. He knows good wine. Here, my dear, gulp this down," placing the glass to the girl's lips and raising her head that she might swallow without struggling.

As it was, she choked and gasped, but after a moment began to show some signs of having benefited by the draught, a faint color dawning in her cheeks.

Not For Summer Only

P. & G. Naphtha Soap is an all-the-year-round soap.

More P. & G. Naphtha Soap is used in summer than at any other time of year.

That is to be expected.

In the "dog days," when the mercury hangs 'round 90 in the shade for weeks at a time, a woman is glad to get hold of anything that will save time and labor.

So she buys a few cakes of P. & G. Naphtha Soap and is happy.

Please remember, however, that P. & G. Naphtha Soap does just as good work in January as in July.

It makes clothes as clean in December as in June; and it saves time, labor and fuel in the middle of winter as well as in the middle of summer. P. & G. Naphtha Soap is an all-the-year-round soap. The sooner you realize that, the better.

5 cents a cake: worth more.

"Till" some better," commended the burglar, not unkindly. "Now, if you please, we'll stop talking pretty and get down to brass tacks. Buck up, now, and answer my questions. And don't be afraid; I'm holding no great grudge for what you did this afternoon. I appreciate pluck and grit as much as anybody, I guess, though I do think you ran it pretty close, peaching on a pal after you'd lifted the jewels. By the way, why did you do it?"

"Because—But you wouldn't understand if I told you."

"I suppose not. I'm not much good at splitting sentimental hairs. But Maitland must have been pretty decent to you to make you go so far. Speaking of which, where are they?"

"Don't sidestep. We understand one another. I know you've brought back the jewels. Where have you stowed them?"

The wine had fulfilled its mission, endowed her with fresh strength and renewed spirit. She was thinking quickly, every wit alert.

"I won't tell you."

"Won't she? That's an admission that they're here, you know. And you may as well know I propose to have 'em. Fair means or foul, take your pick. Where are they?"

"I have told you I wouldn't tell."

"I've known pickler women than you to change their minds, under pressure." He came nearer, bending over, face close to her, eyes savage, and gripped her wrists none too gently.

"Tell me!"

"Let me go."

He proceeded calmly to imprison both small wrists in one strong, bony hand. "Better tell."

"Let me go!" she panted, struggling to rise.

His voice took on an ugly tone. "Tell!"

Eating and Drinking.

It is estimated that a canary bird eats annually 234½ times its weight in seeds, etc. Don't you believe it? Certainly. Believe anything, commands the New York Press. Take it on trust. What does man do? The English and French army and navy tests show that the food, water and air which a man receives amount in the aggregate to more than 3,000 pounds a year; that is, to about a ton and a half, or more than 20 times his weight. The tests for men are actual; those for birds are all guess. A canary bird wastes a great deal more than it eats. Soldiers and sailors are not allowed to indulge in this diversion.

How He Died.

Gov. Hughes seldom endures his public addresses by relating amusing incidents, but at the Green county fair recently he relaxed. He was inspecting, he said, by the aid of the principal, the school in a small town. After visiting the gymnasium, swimming pool, and auditorium, they entered the history class room. An oral examination was evidently in progress.

"Thomas," said the teacher, "did Martin Luther die a natural death?"

"No, ma'am," was the prompt reply, "he was excommunicated by a bull."

Then It Costs Time.

"Well, he's always a gentleman, at any rate."

"Yes, that's his trouble. He's too polite for his own good."

"But, my dear sir, is it possible for anyone to be too polite?"

"Why, that man is even polite to Borem when he meets him."

He Got The Booty.

A laborer named Christensen, who lives at Copenhagen, bought an old overcoat for a few cents two years ago. He recently noticed something hard in the lining at the back, and, on regretfully cutting it open, discovered a savings bank book with $230 credited. He reported the treasure to the police, but they have not been able to find the original owner, and the money has been awarded to the laborer.

TO KILL YOUR TOWN.

Surest Way Is to Trade With Mail Order Concerns.

WHY YOU SHOULDN'T DO SO.

Encourage Your Local Dealer and Thereby Enhance the Value of Local Property—Why Help to Build Up an Outside Trust?—A Home Trade Talk.

By sending the money away from home the person who patronizes the mail order house impoverishes his local merchant, prevents his local merchant from bringing on well assorted stocks or large stocks of merchandise, prevents the local merchant from employing more help, which usually comes from the ranks of his patrons; prevents his local merchant from assisting worthy local enterprises, either the church, lodge, factory or political movement, that are nearly always for the benefit of his community, says Up to Date Farming, published from Indianapolis. The paper continues with this strong argument for home trading:

It prevents the growth of population in the community in which the patrons of the mail order houses live and in that way reduces the value of land in which the farmer in particular is interested. The greater number of people in the community the better should be the price of land.

By patronizing the mail order houses the person patronizing such houses is often deprived of the privilege of buying many articles that he needs immediately that would be of great benefit to him and whose cost could probably be saved many times over if he could but be supplied at once.

By refusing and failing to buy from his local dealer he loses the opportunity of buying goods which he actually needs and which by comparison he could pick out as the best and the cheapest.

It is a well known fact that mail order houses get the most of their business based on low priced goods, and when a low price is named invariably low class goods are furnished.

It is also a well known fact that mail order houses buy seconds and goods of low quality. As a rule, of course, they keep some standard goods that they offer at less than legitimate profit, which blinds the mail order house customer and makes him believe that everything the mail order house offers is good quality and low in price, which, of course, is not true.

It betweens every person, whether he be farmer, mechanic, professional man or capitalist, to buy everything that he needs from his local merchant when it is possible to do it—to do everything that he can to encourage the local dealer and local manufacturers. The sympathy of your own people is a thing much to be desired and very much needed.

It is a fact and can be proved that many former successful merchants in communities that were prosperous previous to the advent of the mail order houses have been bankrupted and reduced to poverty, and the people in such communities can get only the bare necessities and have to make frequent trips to nearby towns in order to make selections that they formerly could obtain at home from their local merchants.

We appeal to all persons to patronize their local merchants always and never to let the small difference in price on a few articles stand in the way of patronizing the local merchant.

It is consistent to undertake to fight the trust with one hand, the trusts that have reduced the price of labor and farm products to such an extent that your calling is the poorest paid in the land, and help form another trust with the other hand because these trusts are willing to sell to you in some instances at a price slightly lower than your local merchant can sell the goods to you for and get a living profit?

You will find that your home merchant will sell you the same quality of goods just as cheap if you pay him cash and the freight, and you get the goods without waiting from two to three weeks for them.

Temporary Park Planting.

It is often advisable in park planting to set out a secondary set of trees for immediate effect, these to be cut out later. For this purpose nothing surpasses the oleaster, for if well watered the first year the trees will provide for the second summer shade sufficient for picnics and like gatherings. In the third year they have formed a young forest, providing shelter and fuel for any purpose, besides giving a decided park-like effect to the tract. Not later than the fifth year they should in part be removed, and the policy continued with, by the tenth year not one should be left. If the fundamental planting has been skillfully done a single decade of growth should give some good shade and permanent landscape effects.

Novel Tree Preservation.

A subterranean tree may be seen in front of the Elmhurst grounds in Kansas City. It is a giant elm that grew in the primeval forest before Kansas City arrived. When the street was graded and a fill of six or eight feet made on the adjoining property it was decided to save this fine old forest tree. Therefore an archway of brick was built around it and an iron grating inserted at the top. So the old tree still stands at its former level, but amid entirely different surroundings from the days when the forest was unbroken.

Klædive a Poet.

It is not generally known that the Klædive of Egypt is a poet of no mean order—in Arabic, of course.

SAVE WIDOWERS FROM SNARES.

Elderly Colonel Advocates Passage of Most Stringent Law.

The crash of cannon turned the old colonel's thoughts toward death. "I know of three millionaire septuagenarian widowers," he said, gloomily, "whose sons killed them because they were about to marry young girls of 20 or so. It is a very dangerous thing for a rich old man to marry a young girl."

"Were I a legislator, I'd propose a new law, a law to protect Goban Golde or Potter Roxo, with their 75 years, their millions and their vigilant, middle-aged, grasping sons and daughters, from the peril of wedding some beautiful creature of 18 or 19 summers."

"This law should say simply that no man over 65, if he married a woman more than 15 years younger than himself, could leave his wife a cent of his property nor could he—lost in his lifetime he make transfers to her—handle after his marriage any part of his estate save only the income."

The colonel chuckled rather sadly. "Such a law," he said, "would do much to prevent so many pretty girls from falling in love with us grizzled, tottering capitalists."

COMMON LOT OF ALL MANKIND.

Who Is There Among Us Who Can Escape from Worry?

Calmness and serenity are recommended for almost everything in these days. Horace Fletcher considers these qualities even more important than chewing. In the attainment of health, the beauty doctors say that no cosmetics will avail to prevent wrinkles and preserve youth without calmness and serenity, and they are said to be the most potent of all charms in her who would be pleasing to the opposite sex. "Be serene, sweet maid," says the authorities; "let who will be vivacious."

It all sounds very simple, but in order to follow such advice it would be necessary to be a hermit, and then what would be the use of being well or beautiful or attractive? How can anyone be serene who plays golf, or has enterprising relatives, who wants to argue about woman suffrage or religion, or who has not a sure and certain and adequate income? Man that is born of woman is born to worry, as the sparks fly upward, and it is only adding irritation to his other woes to tell him that all good things may be his if he will only be serene.

Retribution.

All infractions of love and equity in our social relations are speedily punished. They are punished by fear. Whilst I stand in simple relations to my fellowman, I have no displeasure in meeting him. We meet as water meets water, or as two currents of air mix—with perfect diffusion and interpretation of nature. But as soon as there is any departure from simplicity, and attempt at halfness, or good for me that is not good for him, my neighbor feels the wrong; he shrinks from me as far as I have shrunk from him; his eyes no longer seek mine; there is war between us; there is hate in him, and fear in me.—Emerson.

The Necessity of Work.

I cannot regard work as the highest necessity of man. The noblest man is he who is idle, who cherishes, nourishes and develops himself; thus do the gods live, and man is the god of creation. This is my heresy. I have confessed it. But in the chair of confession there sits another being, and he is really right when he says: Well, my child, to do nothing, merely to be here—that would be the worst and the most abominable. Very fine! But as no man can be here without another working for him—come here, stand on this point—then each must also work. None is here merely for the sake of being, nor others merely for the sake of working.—Auerbach.

Sam's Only Enjoyment.

The colored people of the southeast of the Carolinas, like all superstitious classes, take a fearsome and hysterical pleasure in a funeral, and regard it as an enjoyable affair. They are often heard, when about to attend a funeral, to wish each other a pleasant time.

The gardener of a family in the town of G— once went to Charleston on a visit of a week. Upon his return home the lady for whom he worked said: "Sam, did you have a pleasant time in Charleston?"

"No, ma'am," replied Sam, "a very poor one. And if one of my friends had not died while I was there I would not have enjoyed myself at all."

Needed a Change of Air.

John Talbot Smith says that on one occasion a well known and esteemed priest called upon Archbishop Ryan to ask for a vacation on the ground that his health required it. As he was noted for his frequent absence from his parish, the archbishop could not forego the opportunity of a good natured dig:

"The physicians say that you need a change of air, father?"

"They do, your grace."

"How would it do to try the air of your parish for a month or so for a change?"—Freeman's Journal.

Modesty.

"Ah, my love," sighed the ardent lover, "if you only knew how beautiful you are!"

"You mustn't speak of it," protested the modest girl; "I don't want to know."

"Why not?"

"Because," she said, "it would make me too conceited."

Farming on the Increase.

Argentina's area under cultivation is now 30,000,000 acres, comparing with 12,000,000 in 1905.

DIFFERENCE IN COFFEES

I can take 100 lbs. of Golden Blend in the green and roast it so that it will make the Golden Blend coffee that is sold here regularly each day, and I can take another 100 lbs. of the same coffee and roast it so that it will taste rank, sour or bitter. Yet you can pick up a handful of either coffee and would hardly see a difference, except possibly that one would be a little darker than the other. Coffee that is properly roasted should be of a cinnamon brown color. The least variation from this is immediately seen by the expert, and yet if you asked the ordinary dealer to tell you technically what cinnamon brown really is he would go into a long, rambling, unsatisfactory explanation or would frankly admit that he did not know what it meant in the true sense.

This shows the importance of expert knowledge in the handling and blending of coffee. Every pound of Golden Blend is handled by men who have a thorough knowledge of coffee. It is tested by cup test and blended by the same test. Its quality never varies.

Golden Blend will suit nine-tenths of all the people in Janesville because it is a standard of what good coffee should be. If you will try a pound of Golden Blend upon my recommendation, and if it fails to suit your taste, I will blend specially for you. I will blend in half pound lots and make you a present of the coffee until I have suited your taste. When once I know what you want, I will have no trouble to suit you in the future.

PLAGUE RAVAGES CZAR'S CAPITAL

ASIATIC CHOLERA INCREASING IN ST. PETERSBURG.

THREAT OF MARTIAL LAW

Municipal Officials Finally Aroused to Action—Alarm General Throughout Russia—Other Countries on Guard.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 21.—St. Petersburg is in the grasp of the Asiatic cholera, which already has exceeded in severity and numbers of victims the visitation of 1893. The disease is increasing daily at an alarming rate and, unless the authorities show in the future a much greater degree of ability to cope with the situation than they have in the past, there is every reason to fear that it will get out of hand.

The government has threatened to apply the provisions of martial law and this threat has driven the municipal officials to bend all their energies to the campaign of clearing the city of the scourge. The aldermanic council Sunday voted a preliminary sum amounting to $250,000 to enlarge the hospital space, to purchase and distribute disinfectants, the supply of which in St. Petersburg is well-nigh exhausted, and to expedite the interment of bodies which has been notoriously slow. The dead houses are overcrowded and many corpses lie unburied.

Sale of Liquor Curbed.

Under his authority as prefect of St. Petersburg, Gen. Drachoffsky has prohibited the sale of liquor throughout the city, including the government vodka shops, until September 22, and he has further ordered that after that the sale of liquor shall be suspended at two p. m. on Saturday until ten a. m. Monday. This action has been taken in order to diminish alcoholic excesses which very materially increase the liability to cholera infection and the general spread of the disease.

Sunday public schools were transformed into hospital wards. A number of the grammar schools were closed and 4,000 of the students sent to their homes. The department of war has opened stores to supply immediate needs, and army field kitchens have been dispatched to the poorer quarters to dispense free food.

The situation, which has always been serious since the very first case was reported, assumes a graver aspect from the appearance Sunday of a very virulent type of the disease, in two cases of which death followed within 15 minutes of the first symptoms.

Entire Country Alarmed.

Advices from all parts of Russia show that the alarm is very general and that there is good reason for it. At Moscow a quarantine has been established at all railway depots and passengers are placed under the strictest surveillance. Up to the present Moscow has been immune. A death has occurred at Helsingfors from the disease and ten Russian steamers have been denied entrance to Viborg harbor for evading quarantine at Trangsund, a roadstead eight miles from that port.

Germany has become alarmed over the spread of the disease and the German authorities have taken precautions to prevent its crossing the frontier. Austria has done the same thing; Sweden and other nearby countries have declared a quarantine against Russia, and France is ready to meet any exigencies that may arise.

Conditions at Manila.

Manila, Sept. 21.—Fifty-eight new cases of cholera and 19 deaths are reported for the 24 hours ending at eight o'clock Monday morning.

The infected areas in the city and suburbs are spreading somewhat but the health authorities are still confident that they will be able speedily to gain control of the situation.

Milwaukee Sends Help to City Threatened by Forest Fires.

Milwaukee, Sept. 21.—The city of Rhineland, nearly 200 miles north of here, is threatened with destruction by forest fires and Milwaukee was called upon to aid in saving the city. A steam fire engine, half a mile of hose and a truck were loaded on a special train and started for the scene of the fire at nine o'clock Sunday night.

No word can be secured from Rhineland as to the extent of the fire except that the city is surrounded by forest fires which threaten to sweep over the city.

Golden Jubilee of a Church.

Leavenworth, Kan., Sept. 21.—Justice David J. Brewer, of the United States supreme court, was the principal speaker at the services in commemoration of the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the First Congregational church of this city here Sunday. Justice Brewer has been a member of the congregation for 45 years. His address was in the nature of a sermon.

Convicted of Embezzlement.

Denver, Col., Sept. 21.—Clint O. Heath, formerly a real-estate dealer and promoter of this city, was found guilty of embezzlement of $8,500, from Mrs. Mary Huston of New York, by a jury in the criminal court. This verdict carries sentence of one to ten years in the penitentiary.

PHILADELPHIA'S BIG FETE

WEEK OF CELEBRATION WILL COMMEMORATE FOUNDING.

Naval and Military Displays and Gorgeous Pageant That Will Illustrate City's History.

Philadelphia, Sept. 21.—Beginning with special religious services in all the churches, this city during the week of October 1 will be the scene of a most pretentious and magnificent celebration in commemoration of its founding.

The entire week from October 1 to 10 has been set aside for the celebration and officially designated Founders' Week, to be observed as a holiday.

Among the multitudinous events will be a naval display on the Delaware river, in which a score of United States war vessels will be seen; a military parade, in which more than 25,000 United States soldiers, sailors, marines, national guardsmen and others will participate; an industrial parade, in which the industrial development of Philadelphia will be shown in its various stages; a parade of poets and orators of this and other municipalities, and a historical pageant.

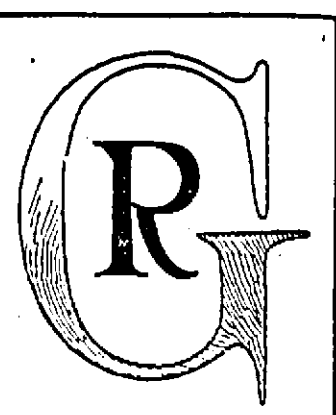

This pageant can hardly be compared with anything that has been attempted before because of the originality of the conception and the execution of the plan. Beginning with the arrival of the Swedish settlers, the Dutch settlers and the coming into the Delaware river of William Penn upon the ship Welcome, practically the entire history of the city will be faithfully illustrated in tableaux. Prominent persons will be dressed to represent figures famous in the history of the city and the nation. Many who have been selected for these parts are descendants of the persons they will represent.

DEBUTANTE'S RACING COSTUME.

Debutantes who go frequently to the races during warm weather prefer a costume which is light of weight, dust proof and breezy. The English muslin of silky finish and soft, flexible texture perfectly answer these requirements. They are made up in creamy and ivory white, champagne, taupe and the various fashionable shades of rose and light blue. Their walking skirts are usually gored, hand, fancy braid and button trimmed and their putaway coats or blon jackets similarly ornamented.

Still Alarm: A rubbish fire started by some boys near the Modest Milling company's building was put out by the fire department about 7:30 Saturday night. This morning the department was called to the home of H. G. Doschalle, 124 Washington street. A kitchen stove had ignited the woodwork in the kitchen and the damage amounted to about $25. Damage from smoke will reach a higher figure.

Subversion of an Honor. An extraordinary commission has been created in Paris to investigate the affairs of the Order of the Legion of Honor, created by Napoleon as a signal mark of merit for distinguished service rendered to the state. This original purpose of its founder has been gradually subverted and the cross has been bestowed for rather ordinary causes, frequently political.

Beer in Belgium.

A consular report sets forth that in Belgium more varieties of beer are for sale than in any other country. All the European breweries have their agents in this fortunate country and some American beers are sold there too. When the reputation of Germany as a beer country is remembered it seems odd to think of Belgium taking in more kinds.

Our Mail Service.

The first record contained in our colonial history of any kind of mail service dates from 1677, when the court at Boston appointed Mr. John Hayward to "take in and convey" letters according to their direction. It is impossible to say what the charges were for this first mail service, but in 1792 the rates were as follows: One letter, less than 80 miles, six cents; between 80 and 100 miles, ten cents; between 200 and 250 miles, 17 cents; more than 400 miles, 25 cents.

THE BREAD WINNER

must have good nourishment. He must eat food nourishing enough to sustain him in his daily toil. He knows not which flour is good or bad and eats the food that is prepared for him.

Housewives should consider how they buy flour as it is the most necessary article in the kitchen.

Blue Cross Graham Flour makes delicious bread, much more nourishing than white bread as it contains all the nutriment of the wheat. Sold at all grocers.
